Bupt. Byrnes Orders the Police to Preserve Order To-Morrow.

Apprehension of disturbances at the polis in to-morrow's election has not yet been wholly allayed in the minds of the citizens of the Republican managers, United States Marshai Jacobus and Chief Supervisor of Elections John I. Davenport. The intent to conforce the worst provisions of the Force bill are relterated by these officials, who assert in terms that their authority under Federal law is in every respect paramount to Sure They Are Good Meu.

bill are reiterated by these officials, who assert in terms that their authority under Federal law is in every respect paramount to the authority of the officers of the State and eity.

The number of special deputy marshals sworn in by Marshal Jacobus is not known definitely by any one but himself. It is said, however, to be more than 10,000, and they include very many of the worst characters in the city. One of the officials in Jacobus's office said in explanation of the appointment of some especially disreputable-looking fellows that it was "axtremely difficult to get respectable men to serve." The character of the supervisors of election is a grade better than that of the deputy marshals, as it is required of each of them to be able at least to read and write.

Sare They Are Good Meu.

"They are good intelligent men, and came well recommended. I can't even tell how many I have appointed aiready, but it is quite a large number," said the Marshal wish to far away look it his eye.

"Zverything is moving along smoothly this morning," he continued, "and the situation looks avorable all long the city. As the marshal was taiking a gang of nswly appointed deputles were shot out of his private room and husticed along the corridors to wards the office of commissioner beuef to be sworn in. They looked as if they had been picked up along the docks. In the crowd around the doorway were several negroes and tramps in various degrees of dilapidation.

Those who were taken of the office of commissioner beautiful ordeal awaited them.

Many of the clear-headed of these deputy marshals have torn up their commissions, when they contemplated the chances of serving without pay. Some of the Federal Supervisors have also done the same. Denis Shea, Republican leader in the Second District, was asked by them whom they should hold responsible for their pay.

"Davenport, of course," said Shea.

To the Utices of Brookles
Our city was visited by a disastrous fire on Saturday evening in the Sixth Ward. The district horned was occuried by tenement houses. The suffering resulting is being fait by that class of our citizens least able to hear any form of disaster. A large number of families are homeless. A generous response to this appeal will be a fitting preparation for a Thanksgiving holiday approaching a local commuttee will be appointed to receive funda Until notice of this committee shall be given contributions will be received at this office.
